

P. Andrew (Andy) Robinson

CEO & Executive Coach

CRG Leadership Institute – A Trusted Partner in Transformational Leadership

Andy Robinson is a seasoned executive coach and leadership development advisor with over two decades of experience supporting CEOs, C-suite leaders, and boards to level up their effectiveness, cohesion, and organizational impact. As the CEO and Managing Principal of CRG Leadership Institute, Andy partners with executive teams and board leaders to accelerate clarity, strategic decision-making, and high-impact collaboration at the very top.

Known for facilitating transformative leadership retreats, board strategy sessions, and executive offsites, Andy is widely respected for his ability to spark authentic dialogue and enable senior teams to achieve breakthrough results. He specializes in strategic planning, executive team development, board chair–CEO alignment, and building strong, accountable leadership cultures.

Andy's coaching is grounded in a blend of practical business acumen and a deeply human approach to growth and behavior change, drawing on significant advisory expertise from his 10 years at PricewaterhouseCoopers, where he served in both practice leadership and national director roles. During his time at PwC, Andy worked closely with top-tier executives and Fortune 500 leadership teams, giving him firsthand insight into the nuances of senior leadership across complex organizations.

Andy is a prolific reader, frequent writer and published author. He shares his leadership effectiveness and professional development insights in a weekly Newsletter which has a wide reach and has been consistently published for the past 15 years.

He has also served as co-host of the Career Success Radio Show in Cambridge, Massachusetts, expanding his influence as a thought partner in leadership effectiveness.

Andy holds a BBA from the University of Georgia and an MBA/MSM from the Georgia Institute of Technology. He is an active member of the Worldwide Association of Business Coaches.

Throughout his career Andy has been actively involved in community organizations in board leadership roles, including the United Way of Collier and the Keys, the American Diabetes Association and the Florida Medical Association.

Based in Naples, Florida, Andy serves clients nationwide and travels frequently. When not working with executive leaders, he's likely out on a long cycling ride or bike racing, channeling his passion for endurance, focus, and growth — on and off the road. He is a husband to his best friend, Carrie, a father, a grandfather and a fitness nut.
